

Thank you for being a part of our story...

Everyone knows that organising great venues & suppliers for any successful business or private event is dependent on being 'in-the-know' about the hits & the absolute misses. From the very beginning of your planning, the team at Ultimate Conferences & thevenueshop provide so much added value & extra insight to complement your event organising – there to support you all the way & covering off the aspects of your meeting or event you may not have even thought about.

If ever there was a business that thrives on the "who you know" – it is events...

When keeping up-to-date with the 'latest & greatest' in venues & event suppliers is your day job, (from team-building companies, entertainment, through to AV, stylists & more!) there isn't much that goes unnoticed. That's why Ultimate Conferences & thevenueshop are your best friends when organising that conference or convention, training series, Christmas party, corporate event or gala, product launch... even for planning your 'big day'. We share with you our 'little black book' & the extensive knowledge & expertise based on our years working in events & hospitality.

First, we take time to understand what you really need, what you want to achieve & how you envisage your event best coming to life. Then, we share with you how to get the best deal, where to get the best offering to suit & who is the best available in the business.

Priceless information needed to create events to remember - all for the right reasons....

You only get one shot at organising your event. When the lights are on & the event is rolling, everyone is looking at you to make it a success. We know. We've been there . . . That is why we care so much that your event is an absolute success.

So when you are organising your events, why would you risk your venue & supplier choices on random searches, or those who scream the loudest?

Work with people who actually know... who have real relationships & up-to-date information. Information you can trust from those who believe that your event success is the only option.

So start your event planning each & every time with Ultimate Conferences & thevenueshop!
